Moore College of Art & Design

DAROFFDESIGN

DDI served as Architect of Record for the exterior and interior design of the Levy Gallery after submitting preliminary concepts in a design competition. The Gallery links Moore College of Art's three International Style buildings and currently houses exhibits for local artists and students. The 5,000 square foot structure also houses the College's Student Activity Center.

The bright, wide open space is accentuated by a 14-foot high space frame, skylit ceiling and surrounding glass clerestory. Simple minimal finishes and low voltage lighting allow the space to serve as a quiet, unobtrusive backdrop for art exhibits.
