Philadelphia International Airport

DAROFFDESIGN

OTG Experience, a New York-based national food and beverage provider, selected DDI to head their design team in transforming Terminal B at Philadelphia International Airport into a hospitality centered experience for air travelers. OTG (“On-the-Go”) leads the effort in “breathing new life into the airport experience” at locations across the country and here for the $30 million dollar 60,000 sq. ft. redesign at Terminal B.

The renovation includes expanded retail offerings, grab and go food concessions and several new restaurants open to gate lounges. Locations feature sophisticated furniture and dining tables and countertops equipped with iPads allowing passengers to check flight information, browse online, play games, and order food and drinks to be delivered directly to the comfort of their seats.

Each restaurant DDI designed for OTG is unique to its featured cuisine, with venues like LOVE Grille, Independence Prime, and Germantown Biergarten referencing to local city neighborhoods, landmarks, and icons. In addition to this Philadelphia location, DDI is collaborating with OTG at more than 6 other locations nation-wide.
